CLASS DAY EXERCISES

President Hewitt Plants Class Ivy and Members of Graduating Class Listen to Class History, Prophecy and Will

Exercises commemorative of class day were held this Friday afternoon by the members of the graduating class of the Portsmouth High School, and were of a very interesting character. The program was as follows:

The planting of the ivy at three o'clock on the school grounds, the first class of ivy being placed there by the class president, Wilfred Hewitt, then each officer, each girl and each boy of the class placed a shovelful of ivy in turn.

This exercise was witnessed by the scholars, teachers, parents, and friends of the class. Adjournment was taken to Assembly Hall where the evening program was presented:

Opening of meeting by President, Wilfred Hewitt.

Presentation of spade to Junior class, by President Hewitt.

Acceptance of spade in behalf of the Junior class, by John Hassett, president of class of 1913.

Class History—Miss Martha Newell.

Class Prophecy, written by the Misses Madeline Paul and Jane Newton, read by latter.

Class Will, written by Miss Mariel Teleford and Mr. Arthur Chapin, read by former.

THE PROPHECY OF THE CLASS OF NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FOURTEEN.

Madeline Paul and I, during our school days, have not yet forsaken each other. After graduating from the Portsmouth training school and teaching for two years in New Hampshire, we were fortunate enough to obtain positions in the same town in western New York state. Time heeded only a week to our spring vacation and we were trying to decide if we should overcome our homesickness and not come home, when fate stepped in, in the form of two invitations, and decided the question for us. Imagine how quickly the feelings of surprise and pleasure replaced that of homesickness when we read:

"The class of Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen, Portsmouth High school, requests the honor of your presence at a class banquet to be given at the Copley Plaza, Boston, Massachusetts, at 8 o'clock, April 29, 1924."

As our vacation was such a short way off we immediately decided to take the trip; meet all our former classmates, and find out the successes of the individuals of the class of 1911.

In New York station the first person we met was our old friend, Warren Hayford. When Warren informed us that he was an owner, etc., in one of the largest film corporations of the United States (and also an actor in a certain circuit), we recalled the fact

FIND BOY DEAD AFTER FIGHT

Maine Children Tie Shoe Laces Around Necks of Young Fishermen.

Presque Island, Me., June 11.—Two 11 year old boys, Victor Porter and Hartley Webb, were attacked by other boys while fishing today, stripped of their clothes, and left bound by shoe strings tied tightly about their necks, according to the police. Young Webb was dead when found tonight, and Porter's face and neck was so badly swollen that the string was strangling him when found. He will recover.

Two boys named Cote were arrested after an investigation. The police allege that they had on the clothing and shoes of young Porter and Webb.

The plight of the boys was discovered by a young lad named Landy and his sister. While gathering greens they heard a low moaning behind some bushes and investigated.

Young Porter was rolling on the ground in agony. Nearby was a young Hartley, who in his struggles had fallen into the shallow water of the stream, where they had been fishing, and had drowned.

Victor was the son of Fred O. Porter and Hartley was the child of Mrs. Maud Webb. Both families are prominent.

TOLLS REPEAL PASSES SENATE

Amended Measure Goes Through by Vote of 50 to 35 and Now Reverts to House

Washington, June 11. Repeal of Panama canal tolls exemption for American coastwise shipping passed the senate tonight by a vote of 50 to 35. The measure now goes back to the house which is expected to accept the Simmons-Norris amendment, specifically reserving all rights the United States may have under the Hay-Bunauville treaty.

The passage of the bill after a bitter struggle that has lasted for several months was regarded tonight as another victory for President Wilson.

Although 13 Republicans came to the aid of the 37 Democrats who voted for the bill on final passage the President intimated the movement in his party for repeal and it was behind him that many of the Democrats, who voted "aye" lined up on the last test.

There has been no certain promise from the White House that the President will sign the bill with its qualifying amendment, but there has been no declaration that he will veto it, and

Maudlin Sentimentality.

In an address before a Ministers' Union in an eastern city recently one of the speakers pointed out what he considers some of the weaknesses of so-called social service in a way that should command the attention of those well-meaning people who have got into the habit of thinking that practically all wrong doing is due to environment and the lack of proper education and training. That these things have something to do with the conduct of children and their elders in many cases may be admitted, but that they are responsible for the evils of the times to any such extent as is claimed by social reformers and welfare workers there is no reason to believe.

The speaker on this occasion did not wish to disparage the good done through social service, "but I do think," he said, "that it sometimes runs to maudlin sentimentality." Thinking people will have to admit that he was pretty close to the truth in those words, as he was when he said that "the toothbrush is no fit substitute for the New Testament."

The speaker then went on to comment on the tendency of wrong doers to shift their responsibility to other shoulders, and the tendency of the times to aid them in so doing. He told of a sheriff who said that if prisoners had been brought up to familiarity with the bath and the toothbrush there would have been fewer criminals. This is in line with a great deal of talk that is heard these days. Only recently it has been proclaimed by a man who attributes moral delinquencies to physical defects that bad teeth are responsible for much that is commonly recognized as the "cussedness" of boys. When an ignorant person is charged with crime the lack of education is pleaded in his favor, and so on through the long list of explanations and excuses that make up the sum of "maudlin sentimentality."

Common observation should be sufficient to show the error of this line of reasoning, if reasoning it can be called. Some of our worst criminals are well educated men who have had every advantage in life. They have not been strangers to the bath, the toothbrush and the knowledge of right and wrong.

It would be better for society if this mushy sentimentality could be eliminated and a return be made to the basis of moral and personal responsibility. We are drifting now toward a condition which would excuse practically all crime, and it is time to turn about and move in a different direction.

For the first ten months of the present fiscal year immigrants have arrived in the country at the rate of 2900 every week day. It is predicted that the year will beat all records in immigration. And the pity of it is that the great majority of the new-comers will huddle in the cities instead of getting out on the land, where they are needed.

A Boston physician claims that candy and ice cream are the best cure for drunkenness. Well, that is cheaper and pleasanter than some of the other cures, and is liable to be tried by some who are not over-anxious for a cure.

The New York health department declares that most Americans eat too much meat. And this in spite of the prices that prevail. Will the time come when a shortage in meats will be regarded as a blessing in disguise?

It is fortunate for President Wilson that the crop outlook is so promising. Not that he will get any credit for it, but, of course, the administration would be held responsible if conditions were otherwise.

Marconi has demonstrated that his wireless telephone is good for a distance of 600 miles. How long before the whole world, by its use, will be able to sit down and spend an evening together?

The department of agriculture recommends stale beer as an exterminator of cockroaches. But the trouble in most cases will be to keep beer long enough for it to become stale.

The navy has been forbidden to joke about the grapejuice order, but this should be easy. It is probable that most of the men are in no mood for joking.

The Springfield, Mass., court rules that a blackjack is not a dangerous weapon. Yet it is very dangerous to be hit on the head with one.

Last winter was a terror on the seas, and recent experiences off the North Atlantic coast indicate that the end is not yet.

Every season brings its dangers. The heat and the water are now claiming their victims.

STRAWBERRY BANK.

Strawberry Bank Grange had a very pleasing program presented on Thursday evening, it being in charge of the Three Graces. At the conclusion, refreshments of fancy sandwiches, crackers, coffee, etc., were served by the entertainment committee.

On Thursday evening, June 25, the last meeting of the season will be held and will be observed as the annual Children's Night. The children will provide the entertainment.

There are indications of some live business at the summer resorts.

CLASS DAY EXERCISES

that Warren always was an authority on moving pictures and used to make brilliant recitations in the English class. Later we learned that "Big Chief" excels in western Indian sketches.

With Warren was Arthur Clapp, who is manager of the dry goods department in a large store in a certain city in North Carolina. Arthur promises us that if we ever come south we can surely obtain real bargains in his department. This surely is some attraction for us.

We found we had to wait for some time in order to make train connections, so we decided to have a light lunch. Across the street we saw a sign, "Neville's Quick Lunch." Upon our entering there sat behind the proprietor's desk our old classmate, Edward Neville. We must acknowledge that the celebrity of the waitresses certainly made up for the accustomed "take-it-easy" manner of the proprietor.

After lunch we went back and purchased our tickets from the agent, who proved to be another promising classmate, Nelson Fernand. We then boarded the train for Boston.

At Hartford Dorothy Doolittle got on. Not pursuing her old hobby, music, and is a successful music teacher. With her was her old classmate, Bertha Chapman. We inquired into Bertha's affairs, but after telling us that she was still teaching school, she blushing remained silent. However, on the fly told us that Bertha is soon to become the bride of a naval officer, well known in his native town of Portsmouth.

At Providence David Riley's smiling and blushing countenance put in an appearance. He is professor of French at Brown University. Much to our surprise David's voice has taken a deep bass pitch.

Arriving in Boston, the first thing that attracted our attention was a suffragette's parade, and who should be chief marshal but Martha Newton. We were very near her as she passed, but Martha was so eager to make a good impression for her "cause" that she failed to recognize her old classmates.

Further along in the ranks we spied Helen Davis bearing the banner, "Votes for Women." And by her side was her girlhood comrade, Olga Iyer, bearing a banner, "Down with man!" Should we not be glad that there were several in our class interested in the political uplift of our great country?

Arriving at the hotel we found that Francis Crowley was the proprietor. At 7.30 we left for the banquet, our hearts quivering with eagerness to see our classmates again.

The first person who greeted us was Wilfrid Hewitt, our Senior class president. Wilfrid, after having graduated from Harvard, has become a successful writer of short stories, which are distinguished by their thrill of love and adventure. His best character so far is Katherine, the heroine of a gripping detective story. Wilfrid is happily settled in Wakefield and extends a cordial invitation for us to visit him and his charming wife.

Next we saw Dorothy Atwood and Ida Levine, who are valuable stenographers in lawyers' offices.

Over in one corner we saw two old friends, Edward Ewen and Lemuel Pope, old, having a heart to heart talk. We approached and they gave us a hearty handshake. Lem entered New Hampshire state college, but after two years passed his exams and procured an appointment for West Point. Although, happily, our country has not lately been plunged into horrible warfare and Lem has had no especial opportunity to distinguish himself, nevertheless we understand that he has followed the habits of his youth and has become a notorious heart breaker and dashing gallant at all the social functions held at the army post where he is stationed.

And Edward hesitatingly informed us that he is manager, in the town of Rye, of a large plumbing establishment, a branch of Paul's of Portsmouth. We always knew that Eddie was a good manager. As soon as his ship comes in we are almost sure that he will be eager to take another trip to Washington, perhaps with Hayford and meet Simpson.

Shirley, after graduating from Portsmouth, started giving instruction in modern dancing, but nearly all his pupils being here, stout people, Chickie gave up in despair, purchased a plantation in North Carolina and married a belle of the state.

Proceeding to the dining hall we came face to face with Frederick Griffin. Fred did teach ancient history, but on account of his poor discipline during the football season Fred was obliged to give up. He then, with Leon Roberts, opened a large men's clothing establishment where one can procure the very latest fashions of the season, and high school graduates can obtain special rates in the line of white flannels.

At the table, Katherine Cronin and Arthur De Courcy sat opposite us. Katherine is a resident nurse in a private school. Arthur is librarian in the Portsmouth library. We understand that he is a great aid in picking out the latest and most romantic love stories for all the old maids.

At a short distance from Florence was her old chum of yore, Florence Mercer. We understand that she, too, is a successful nurse in a large children's hospital. Hearing a familiar laugh we recognized Mary Quirk. She is a business teacher at Portsmouth High. Mary exercises the discipline over her pupils that was applied to her in our Senior year.

As we glanced around we saw two more familiar faces, Alberta Adams and Sarah McWilliams. They are managing large hairdressing parlors, but indirectly we hear it rumored that Alberta is soon to forsake her business partner and settle down in the blissful bonds of matrimony.

Among the after dinner speakers one of the most thrilling and heart stirring addresses was delivered by our old debater, Shanon Katz. Simon is one of the greatest progressive leaders in Congress. We are told that Roosevelt, then traveling, always sends him trophies. We feel sure that Simon's audience will have no difficulty in catching all his points though he may be forced to hurry.

Louis Driller interested us very much in his account of the delicate situations which the American army of engineers have been experiencing in Mexico. We are told that Louis is just as popular among his fellow workmen as he was at P. H. S.

Later we broke up; each one eager to question one and all of his former classmates.

Sherburne Wendell tells us that he owns the largest motorcycle and automobile agency in Speedville.

Next we sought for our versatile classmate, Muriel Retchford, but to vain. Muriel is studying art in Germany and has had not a small success in painting religious pictures.

At college Clayton Mudge studied to become a surgeon. But giving up the idea Muriel has now become a butcher and runs a large wholesale meat market in Boston. He has an able assistant in James Pullam, who superintends the drying of Argentine beef.

Donald Yenton, we understand, is a successful mathematics teacher.

Harold Littlefield is prospering as a district superintendent of the Standard Oil Company.

Edith Rand tells us that she is pre-tron of the Children's Home in Portsmouth. We always knew that Edith, in her quiet and shy manner, was fond of children.

Joseph Harvey has just published a book which is valuable to many members of the unphilosophical age, "How to Make Love." We surely wonder if Joseph's experiences in early life have been of very great aid to him.

Viola Merrill has, since graduating, steadily risen and is doing credit to the teachings of her youth in performing the duties of bookkeeper in Woolworth's Five and Ten Cent Store.

Theresa Paul and Constance Lowe are prosperous milliners. We only wish that we might be in Portsmouth next season and purchase our hats from their modish stock.

George Hatchins has become a star ball player. But we understand that in his leisure time, George edits a newspaper column, "Advice to the Love-Lorn." We know that he must be especially good in giving advice on "How to Conduct Oneself on Hallwaymen."

William Crowley is instructor of physical culture in a fashionable girls' boarding school. They say that he is very popular among his pupils.

Leola Shoberg is doing splendid social work in establishing girls' clubs. We certainly wish that there might be more such enthusiastic workers as Leola.

Anna Crowley has become private secretary to a professor of historical research and is now touring abroad. The last letter one of her friends received from her related how she had attended in Berlin a musicale given by our old genius, Theresa Brooks. She is fast becoming an idol of the musical world. We all predicted a brilliant future for her when she played the class ode at our commencement.

Frances Leary is teaching American history in a large girls' school. Frances' high school note book was so complete that she does not need the aid of a text book for her lectures.

Kate Green has returned from Paris where she has been attending a fashionable dressmaking school and has opened parlors in New York city. We have decided to stop off and visit her, so we hope our pocket books will be thick enough to allow us to indulge in buying one of her latest creations.

With the increase of population and enlargement of ideas concerning education, public school teachers have become more and more in demand; therefore not a small number of girl graduates prepare to enter this field, and we are sure that the class of 1914 is not lacking in representatives.

Helen Day, Besse Byrne, Dorothy Bennett and Alice Griffin are also teaching after having received efficient training at the Portsmouth Training School.

It was now getting late; we looked around questioning; had we seen all our classmates? Was there not one link of the chain of 1914 missing?

Why, to be sure! Where was our old friend Earl Bruce? Was he late as usual? The last we heard of Earl, he was enjoying life on his third honeymoon. Earl always did believe that "variety was the spice of life."

The next afternoon Lem invited us to the theatre and there was Bruce! His part of leading lady was played in such a humorous yet serious manner that we know that he is far outclassing Julian Ellings.

And thus our questioning must end. And we remain, fifty-two friends, traveling the international road of "trial to triumph," and fifty-two honors to our Alma Mater, united by the chain of 1914 in conquering the problems of life in ways which, we hope, are a credit to dear old P. H. S.

JANE NEWTON,
MADRIENNE PAUL.

1914 CLASS HISTORY

We came! and how great was the coming! One sunny day in September in the year of 1910, the class of '14 entered the halls of dear old P. H. S. Then P. H. S. began to live! Outwardly we were only the "freshmen," inwardly we were the genesis of the mighty class of 1914. Even as freshmen our greatness was shown. We can never forget those first class meetings carried on under the watchful leadership of "our own" Miss Beane. Then it was we chose "Green and White" for the colors of our standard. And along with the thought of the colors comes the recollection of freshman basket ball and dear old "Caesar".

We saw, we conquered, at least the "thirteens" while the "twelves" and "elevens" puckered their brows and held their breaths when we approached. As sophomores our careers of honor continued. We began the year by electing Donald Yenton for president, Madeline Paul for vice-president; Edwin Ewen for treasurer and Alice Griffin for secretary. Then too Simon Katz and Martha Newton were mighty in their offices as class-due collectors.

At the beginning of this year a gap was made in the faculty when Miss Matthews became a bride.

The momentous question of class plus was now at hand. Not without argument or delay was the choice made, but once made, one and all confessed it to be by far the best class plan ever chosen. Again came the season for basket ball and again "Caesar" crowned us to victory with all but the "twelves" whose success was due only to their greater weight and their antiquity. Sophomore year was the year of geometry. Always will the memory linger of geometry period with its trials and tribulations under the eye of our most stern unyielding geometry teacher.

"Lucia's Lover" was played by the seniors with great success in the fall of 1911. Great praise was given for the splendid work of all concerned.

At the end of the year a class meeting was held to elect officers for the next year. Lemuel Pope became our president, Martha Newton became vice president, Wilfred Hewitt, treasurer, and Muriel Retchford, secretary. And then the junior year!

Alas! Caesar was dead but his spirit went crawling on, leading us to absolute championship. Of those games! And who shall say that the girls did not work as hard for "14" as the boys on the floor? Collectively they lost their voices with their cheer, "We are the best you must confess, yes! yes! yes!" singly, one of them nearly lost her reputation with her "Kill 'em." The "13s" delighted the general public with "The Private Tutor", this year. Although they were doomed as far as basket ball was concerned, they certainly made good with the play.

Now came the time for the senior officers to be elected. The class chose Wilfred Hewitt, Dorothy Doolittle, Donald Yenton, and Martha Newton for president, vice president, treasurer and secretary. And now the home stretch.

We had a great loss this year when Mr. Hobbs left our school. But the vacancy has been most ably filled by the present principal, Mr. Thurston, who has in one short year won the respect and admiration of all, by becoming a part of the P. H. S.

The play came first. Aunt Mary got through it without breaking any bones either hers or the porters'. And Mr. Roberts managed to keep his mustache straight in spite of the endeavoring embrace of his loving spouse. Altogether "The Sleeping Car" was considered a great success.

The P. H. S. now had its beginnings. The editorial board headed by Muriel Retchford as Editor-in-Chief was certainly not wanting; the material was not lacking, yet—my dears, let us forget it.

The senior benefit went off with a bang! No class since the memory of man has handed out such a concert as "14" did with the aid of "Tufts Glee" and "Mandolin Clubs."

No sooner was that over than the basket ball games began. To describe the wonder and prowess of "14s" would be impossible.

There is no shoe with a better reputation. You get your money's worth when you buy a pair. They are noted for style and efficiency. Come in and try a pair. We will use you right.

five would be impossible. Then too, the victor can afford to let the vanquished off easy. Sufficient to say, the expected and only possible thing happened, "14" was champion again. Of Caesar's spirit we may say "Requiescat in pace!"

The James T. Field's Debating Society, was organized at this time. Many closed meetings were held and two intensely interesting open meetings which were well attended.

Here there is not space to tell of the Washington trip. It can be said however, that though "14" was represented by only a few, nevertheless those few derived enough pleasure to last the whole class a lifetime.

A football play called, "Sandy, the Halfback," and played by boys alone was splendidly rendered at this time.

Our motto was chosen "Per augustinum ad augustum" which all agreed was a suitable motto for such a class.

Through the year Room 4 has been the scene of many a meeting, plaid and—er—stormy ones, let me remark, that many of the stormy ones strange as it may seem have occurred after one o'clock.

And at last this glorious class is approaching graduation. Alas! we shudder to think what a gap we will make! How will P. H. S. survive! But for us these in the class of "14" the future is bright. Since we are the class we are, since we have the record and memories which are ours, since we believe firmly in the motto which we have chosen, surely nothing less than super-natural powers, could prevent the class of "14" the one class, the only class, from becoming still greater with increasing years.

UNVEIL MEMORIAL TABLET

Maine Daughters of the American Revolution Mark Birthplace of Gen. William Whipple

Exercise attendant to the unveiling of the tablet in memory of Gen. William Whipple which last fall was placed on the Whipple house, Kittery, by the Maine Daughters of the American Revolution, were held Thursday afternoon on the grounds adjacent to the house and attended by many. The exercises of the day were in charge of Mrs. William Robinson, of North Anson, Me., State Regent of the Maine Daughters of the American Revolution, and old York Chapter, 14, A. R. Selections were rendered before the exercises by Lander's orchestra, and at two o'clock Mrs. M. W. Truesdell, Regent of Old York Chapter, announced the following program: Selection by orchestra; Prayer by Rev. W. J. Hayes; Selection by orchestra; Address by Mrs. William Robinson, State Regent.

Address: Calvin A. Hayes; Singing of "America" by all, with accompaniment by orchestra. Mrs. Robinson in her remarks gave a brief outline of the work being done throughout the United States by the Chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, stating in many instances just what each state is doing or has accomplished for the benefit of the public.

Col. Jethro H. Swift, also made some interesting remarks concerning his recent trip to Savannah, Ga., and the D. H. R. Chapter of that city.

The house on which the tablet was placed was the residence of General William Whipple, but to most of the citizens of Kittery today is known as the Philbrick house. It having been the birthplace, and the home, home of the late Harrison J. Philbrick, Mr. Philbrick, who passed away three months ago, was very much interested in this tablet, and was preparing for the dedication at the time of his death. It was greatly regretted by all who knew him that he could not have lived until after the unveiling of the tablet.

The inscription was as follows: General William Whipple, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence was born in this house June 14th, 1739. This tablet was placed in 1913.

By Maine Daughters of the American Revolution. Among those present were Mrs. W. J. Robinson, State Regent of Maine; Mrs. Sarah P. Dearborn of Tunbridge, Vt.; Mrs. M. W. Truesdell, Regent of Old York Chapter of Portsmouth, N. H.; Mrs. M. W. Truesdell, Regent of Old York Chapter of Portsmouth, N. H.; Mrs. M. W. Truesdell, Regent of Old York Chapter of Portsmouth, N. H.

Mrs. Frank Rendick of Samuel Adams Chapter of Methuen, Mass., and the Misses Locke of the Jacksonville, Fla., Chapter. A delegation of the members of Old York Chapter were present and also representatives from other chapters in this vicinity.

Kittery has many spots of historic interest which should be marked and it is hoped that the future will see appropriate recognition made of these places.

SAYS SULPHUR DRIVES ECZEMA FROM THE SKIN

Use Like Cold Cream to Instantly Stop Itching and Clear the Skin

Sulphur says a renowned dermatologist, just common cold-sulphur made into a thick cream will soothe and heal the skin when irritated and broken out with Eczema or any form of eruption. The moment it is applied all itching ceases and after two or three applications the Eczema disappears, leaving the skin clear and smooth.

He tells Eczema sufferers to get from an apothecary an ounce of cold sulphur cream and apply it to the irritated parts the same as you would any cold cream.

For many years common cold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the practice of dermatology and cutaneous affections by reason of its powerful destroying property. It is not only parasiticide, but also antipruritic, antiseptic and remarkably healing in all irritable and inflammatory conditions of the skin. While not always affecting a permanent cure it never fails to instantly subdue the angry itching and irritation and heal the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

REBELS STILL PUSHING THE WAR IN MEXICO

Gradually Working South Towards Mexico City--Cargo of Arms for Rebels Arrives at Tampico.

Mazatlan, Mex., June 11.—The Constitutional forces, leaving Mazatlan, it was learned today, stormed and captured the hill of strategic importance, north of the city, Tuesday night. A new wall of defense was built into their possession.

The discovery was made today that the breach places of all the Federal forts at Mazatlan, except one, were in the hands of the rebels. The military police in charge has been captured.

Fearing that the neutral zone recently designated for non-combatants might not be respected in the attack, the entire consular corps at Mazatlan, sent a note today through Rear Admiral Howard, commanding the United States Pacific fleet to Gen. Huerta, the Constitutional commander, asking that the zone be respected.

The German consul has sent a note of thanks to America, it was reported, for protecting German interests.

Japanese Minister Adachi, returning to Mexico City after an unsuccessful effort to reach the West Coast, arrived safely. It is reported, at Mazatlan where he was met by the secretary of the Japanese Legation with a special train. The train carried three automobiles for use in case of emergency by the Japanese.

On the way out the minister's train was delayed at Mazatlan, where the Japanese consuls had turned up the tracks in their successful attack on the city.

OVERLAND FROM TAMPICO

Laredo, Tex., June 11.—A. Volaw and wife of Los Angeles, Cal., were members of a party of seven Americans who reached Nuevo Laredo last night after an overland trip from Tampico, which they left before the capture of the city by the Constitutionalists.

Volaw who asserted he was owner of a 100-acre ranch on the Pecos River, declared he and his wife were forced to hide in the brush 25 days before they escaped.

HEAVY FIRING AT MAZATLAN

Mazatlan, Mex., June 11.—The rebels, who were in the city, were firing on the outskirts of Mazatlan, it was learned today. It is believed the Constitutionalists are advancing for a determined assault. A well directed attack it is thought, would result in the capture of the city. The Constitutionalists captured a strategic hill north of the city Tuesday night.

REBEL LEADERS CONFER

San Antonio, Tex., June 11.—Senator Weeks, a legal adviser of the Constitutionalists here, stated last night that he had been summoned to Laredo, Tex., where he was to attend a conference at which Constitutional agents will endeavor to obtain for Gen. Carranza certain information regarding the situation at Niagara Falls.

Mr. Belden also stated that Roberto Posquerra Alfonso, brother of the late Francisco Madero and Rafael Madero, had been summoned to the conference. Mr. Belden left late last night.

RESTORATION OF PROPERTY

San Antonio, Mex., June 11.—It is reported here on apparently good authority that one of Gen. Carranza's first announcements to be made publicly will deal with the restoration of property of large estates and the minimum wage to be paid laborers through out Mexico.

In response to representations from the United States Gen. Carranza has ordered that the Monterey Brewery Company which the Constitutionalists had confiscated be turned over to its stockholders many of them foreigners. Sen. Sec. of Finance Villareal has been given orders to perfect an arrangement with the stockholders which would allow a resumption of activities in the plant under their direction.

Representations made through American Consul Hanna at Monterey and Acting Consul Elder at Durango regarding the alleged confiscation of all lands around Tampico have brought the reply from Gen. Carranza military Governor, that property said to belong to Dr. Samuel W. Scott an American, had not been confiscated.

Gen. Carranza also reported to the Constitutional first chief that no cattle had been confiscated by direct orders from Constitutional headquarters.

It is announced here that Maj. Alfredo Arrandino, who has had a remarkable career as a soldier in the Constitutional ranks, has been appointed secretary of a special Constitutional diplomatic commission to Europe. Federico Z. Padilla, Gen. Carranza's headquarters, also announced, had been appointed Constitutional consular agent at Liverpool.

Gen. Carranza has ordered that all members of the personal staff who have been with him since the beginning of the revolution be advanced one grade each. The staff is headed by Col. Juan Trevino, who has been made a Brigadier General. Gaspar and Alberto Salinas two aviators of the Constitutional army, have been made captains.

PRESERVE COASTWISE FLEET

Senator Weeks Sees Danger in Repeal of Laws No Profit in Trade for Several Years.

Washington, June 11.—Senator Weeks of Massachusetts yesterday made a vigorous defense of the policy of protection for American coastwise shipping. Senator Reed of Missouri having given notice that he would move an amendment to the bill which would throw American coastwise shipping open to the world. "If the people of this country could vote on the question of protection of our coastwise shipping they would vote in favor of such protection," said Senator Weeks. "In protecting our coastwise shipping and giving it a monopoly we are simply following the policy adopted by all the nations of the world. Business throughout the country is not so good as we would wish, and one reason is an account of attacks similar to that just made by the senator from Missouri. Our coastwise shipping is not in an unusually prosperous condition, and I can demonstrate that those engaged in it lost money last year and have lost money for several years past. If I thought there was a handsome monopoly in the coastwise trade of the United States, I might sympathize with the view of the senator from Missouri. But that is not the fact. While we make the coastwise trade a monopoly so far as the nation is concerned, by giving it protection, it is absolutely open to the individual. And if there were profit in the coastwise trade, I venture to say that there would be plenty of capital ready to invest in shipping of that character."

The senator declared that the vessels in the coastwise trade have no arrangements in regard to rates. He read from the report of the operators of the Merchants & Miners and the New England Steamship Company.

"If I were the general manager of the United States," said Senator Weeks, in reply to questions, "I would not let our coastwise trade get away from us. I believe in nothing but flag when it can be floated under conditions provided in our navigation laws."

"If we could repeal the laws protecting our coastwise trade, I predict that in a year's time every dollar's worth of shipping would be flying a foreign flag and there would be no cause then for Great Britain to object to free tolls in the Panama Canal, because we would have no coastwise shipping to benefit by free tolls."

TOLLS REPEAL PASSES SENATE

gone before, the deep feeling that has been aroused by this bill.

Senator Vardaman of Mississippi and West of Georgia came near to forcing a vote on the floor in the last years.

It had lasted less than a minute, but in that time the senate, worn down by long debate and night sessions, lived up to it.

The trouble started after a bitter exchange between Senator Vardaman and Senator Jones who had vigorously criticized the Mississippi senator and in turn had been told that he was not doing the truth.

When Senator Vardaman sat down Senator West took the floor and also entered a protest against the recent charge of Senator Vardaman that those who voted for the repeal bill were guilty of treachery to the Democratic party. He referred to the charge that the Carnegie foundation had expended $500,000 to boost the repeal bill.

"Who knows," added the Georgia senator, "but what the shipping interests have spent $100,000 in order to secure the defeat of this bill."

"Have you been offered any?" asked Senator Vardaman. As he spoke he rose and started toward the Georgia senator, who was only a few feet away.

"Don't you say that to me," said Senator West, shaking his head and swinging his arms.

"Well," said Senator Vardaman, still advancing, with his arms half raised, "you are making an intimation that somebody else has been influenced."

By this time the two senators were only a few feet apart, but Senator Ashurst, one of the biggest men in the senate, had stepped between them. He held his arm across Senator Vardaman's chest and extended his right toward the Georgian and tried to pacify them, but they kept talking.

In the meantime members who had been in the courtroom tried to tumble out of the doors all at once and the galleries were half filled with people leaning forward with the expectation of seeing a real fight.

"Senators will please come to order," shouted Senator Swanson, presiding.

"The senators will please take their seats and the sergeant-at-arms—"

Here he was interrupted, but Sergeant at Arms Higgins had heard enough and he walked out to where the two senators stood glaring at each other across the outstretched arms of Senator Ashurst, and stood ready for the official command to stop whatever might be started. Mr. West insisted upon explaining.

"I did not say in writing or otherwise," he started to explain.

"The senators will please take their seats," urged the presiding officer.

"No, I am not going to sit down," continued Mr. West, and Senator Jones tried to explain that the Georgia senator meant to make no charges. Finally all resumed their seats without a show on either side. Both Senators West and Vardaman explained that they had no reflection upon any one in what they had said.

BRIDGE NOW OPEN.

Work on the Hampton Harbor

bridge is now completed and on Monday the long structure was again thrown open to traffic. Several new piers have been driven and the bridge has been replanked in several places in readiness for the extensive summer travel. The bridge is a connecting link in the shore boulevard between the New Hampshire and Massachusetts coasts, and each Sunday hundreds of automobiles pass from one state to the other. The structure will again be made a toll bridge on July first. During the week it was closed to traffic it was necessary to approach the beach through the town of Hampton, making many additional miles for those coming into the state from the south.

TO AMEND THE HOME RULE BILL

London, June 11.—Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons today his intention of introducing the proposed bill to amend the Irish Home Rule bill before any further progress is made by the House of Lords with the second reading of the main measure. The Unionists thus have won the day with their insistent demand that he should take this action.

The Lords will be free to change the amending bill as they think proper, and it is generally assumed that they will insert provisions for the unconditional exclusion of Ulster from the operation of the Irish Home Rule bill, and also for the protection of the Protestant minority in the rest of Ireland.

The Unionists in this way will be enabled to test how far the Government and the Irish Nationalists are prepared to go in the direction of a compromise.

The new bill is not likely to be brought into the House of Lords before the week beginning June 21.

I WONDER

What the Vaughan street real estate deal means.

What are we going to get for public amusement on July 4th?

If any of the boys have missed the last car from Hampton Beach this season?

If they did not cause a boom in shoe manufacturing by those all night hikes back from that summer resort last year?

Why somebody don't put a shovel and broom to the alley between the garage and the saloon on Vaughan street?

If the captain of the pleasure boat "Wiggle," has decided to take a course in a nautical school?

Why all the new ships built at the Bath Iron Works are commissioned at Boston when the nearest navy yard is Portsmouth?

Who did the picking of the candidates for representative from Ward 2 for the primary election?

If this is not some quick work on the part of politicians?

If they can get away with this advance move to land picked men?

If those who aspire for the position of the woman police officer's job are not doing some waiting?

If the position will ever be filled?

If the young man who was recently promoted to the position of traveling agent for a local firm has discovered those red bricks he carried in his hand bag?

Why some of the York county commissioners are so lukewarm on the toll bridge question?

If we shall ever see any more baseball games on the Plains diamond?

If a traffic officer is not needed at the corner of Congress and Vaughan streets as much as at the corner of High and Congress streets?

If the first named location is not the most dangerous in the city as far as auto traffic is concerned?
